BAYLIFFS DEFEAT DAYTON NINE 6-2

The Bayliff Electric made it two games in three days Tuesday afternoon when they defeated the Dayton Blue Ribbons 6 to 2 at the Washington Street Ball Park before a holiday crowd.

Cooper allowed the visitors 11 hits eight of which were bunched in three innings but good support in the field, and some inside baseball, enabled him to come through with a clean slate, while he also had the faculty of pitching himself out of bad holes as soon as they presented themselves.

The electricians played real baseball back of their husher, and snapped up blows that looked like they were his, while they terrified the visitors on the paths, not a Blue Ribbon being able to steal. The Blue Ribbons got away to a lead in the opening stanza when Dobleit doubled to left, went to third on Longlois' sacrifice bunt and scored when Stiles threw out Tangeman.

The Bayliffs assumed the lead in the second and were never headed thereafter, after two hits were wasted in the first inning without a run. Stiles opened the second by flying to Leiper, but Bocklet was given a walk, and Fuller singled to right. Leiper struck out for the second out, but Cooper doubled to center, scoring Bocklet and Fuller. The locals added another in the third. After Bath had been thrown out, Ritter was safe on Longlois' wild peg of his grounder to short. He attempted to steal second and Larrimore's peg was also bad, the runner bringing up at third from where he scored on Starkey's single to right. Stiles filed out to Leiper and Starkey was caught off second.

Bocklet started things in the fourth with a double to center and scored on Fuller's two-base blow to right. Fuller took third on a passed ball, and scored on Cooper's infield out. The visitors got their second run in the sixth. Dobleit opened by doubling to left taking third on a passed ball. He scored on Longlois' single past first. The latter was caught trying for second on the play, but Tangeman was safe on Stiles' wild heave to first. Leiper singled past center, but Tangeman was caught off second, Cooper to Ritter and Smith was thrown out by Stiles.

The Bayliffs scored their last run in the seventh. Drake first man up, was safe when Sherlock dropped his pop fly. Bath flew to left, but Ritter singled to right, advancing Drake to second. Starkey popped, but Drake was safe when an attempt was made to force him at third. Stiles' effort dropped in front of the plate and he ran it out, Larrimore heaving wildly on the play, and Stiles taking second. Drake was pinched off at the plate on the play but Ritter scored on the wild heave. This ended the scoring.

The lineup: Bayliffs—Drake, 1f; Bath, 3b; Ritter, ss; Starkey, rf; Stiles, 2b; Bocklet, 1b; Fuller, cf; Leiper, c; Cooper, p; Blue Ribbons—Dobleit, 3b; Longlois, ss; Tangeman, 1f; Leiper, cf; Smith, 1b; Krimm, rf; Larrimore, s; Sherlock, 2b; Fowler, p. The score: Bayliffs,021 200 10x—6 10 3; Blue Ribbons...100 001 000—2 11 4.

RESULT IS AWAITED.

RELAXATION

The great trouble with the modern woman is that she cannot relax. When I think over my list of acquaintances I feel as though some of them had never relaxed at all, not from the time they were babies and jounced about in baby carriages to distract them so they wouldn't cry. We do live a restless, hectic life.

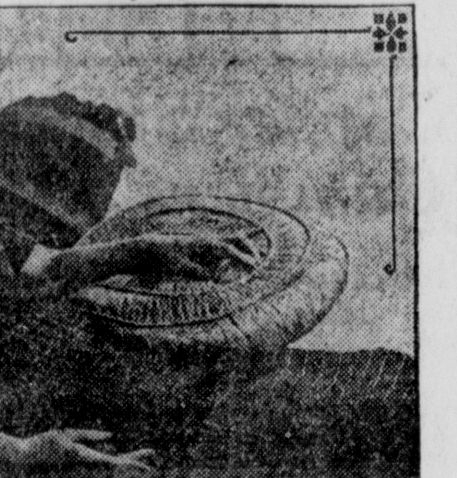

all of us. In strange cities noises constantly assail the ears, even in the country there are few places free from the shriek of an engine or the honk of a motor. We even learn to sleep with a constant hum of noise going on in the air around us. If it doesn't affect us consciously I am sure that the ears of our subconscious mind must be tired of the constant din.

We are, I seriously believe in danger of losing our power of relaxation. It is one reason why we grow old soon and worry over grey hairs and wrinkles. If a woman wants to stay young she should force herself to relax. She will probably have to teach herself how. If you have time for a nap in the afternoon, even for 15 minutes compel yourself to do so. Lie down in a darkened room and lie still even though it is an effort. It may take you weeks and weeks before you can relax sufficiently to sleep, you may be so nervous that you never will learn to doze off in the afternoon, but even so the rest will do you good.

If you are very nervous you may find it necessary to read while you are lying there. After a time, however, you should have gotten yourself into the habit of quiet, then it will be possible to lie quietly relaxed with the eyes shut.

The pores of the face are relieved through this and begin to contract of themselves since they are no longer being overworked.

SOME FACTS ABOUT CANNING YOU MAY NOT KNOW

Every year brings us new discoveries about the art of canning. For instance, a few years ago we did not know that the acid vegetables are less difficult to preserve than those which contain no acid. This is because the antiseptic action of the acid in the vegetable (or fruit) is so much increased by the temperature of the boiling water in the hot-water bath processing of the Cold Pack Method, that it perfectly sterilizes the fruit or vegetable in the jars. Fruits and vegetables containing a large proportion of sugar are also easily sterilized by the hot-water bath method. Whereas vegetables such as corn and peas are much more difficult to preserve because they contain neither acid nor sugar in considerable quantities and are ordinarily infected with a certain of the anaerobic spore-bearing bacteria which, scientists tell us, are able to withstand high temperatures.

Experiments at the University of California have shown us that vegetables can be saved from spoilage as easily as fruit if a little acid is added to the water in which they are canned. It was found that peas, beans, asparagus and beets kept perfectly when heated in the jars to 212 degrees Fahrenheit in a brine made by adding 4 ounces of salt for every 6 quarts of water; this brine was then acidulated by adding to it 5 ounces of lemon juice for every gallon of brine. But when the same vegetables were heated in jars of brine of the same strength but containing no lemon juice, they spoiled.

The popular practice of canning corn with tomatoes is based on the same principle; the corn keeps perfectly because the tomatoes supply the necessary acidity.

Many housekeepers have written me in the past few months to ask why their corn or peas put up last year, spoiled in the can. So this year I am going to ask these disappointed housekeepers to try the following method, instead of the One Period Cold Pack Method which they used last canning season:

The Intermittent Cold Pack Method: This is exactly like the One Period Cold Pack Method except that the jar is boiled for a given period on three successive days, instead of for a long period on only one day. Many canning clubs and private individuals use this Intermittent Cold Pack Method as an added precaution, when canning asparagus, corn, peas and beans (both string and lima). It destroys spores in the jars and is the safest method that can be used with these four particular vegetables

G. A. R. UNVEILS MONUMENT TO DEPARTED MEMBERS WITH FITTING EXERCISES AT WOODLAND CEMETERY DECORATION DAY

The successful climax to 22 years of effort was reached Memorial Day afternoon, when a monument erected by Lewis Post, No. 347, Grand Army of the Republic to the memory of departed members, was unveiled with fitting dedicatory exercises as the principal feature of the usual celebration of the day.

Forty-two, surviving members of the Post that once claimed on its roster the names of 350 Xenia and Greene County Civil War Veterans gathered in peaceful Woodland Cemetery as the monument was unveiled by Quartermaster J. W. Hedges, and the dedicatory address delivered by Captain L. H. Whiteman, charter member of the Post.

Other speakers on the occasion were Ex-Governor James Campbell, of Columbus, himself a G. A. R. member, having served in the Navy during the days of the Rebellion, and Dr. B. R. McClellan, chaplain of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion who represented the soldiers of the World War at the annual exercises in memory of the dead.

Members of the G. A. R., were well

"CAREFUL CROSSING" CAMPAIGN WILL START ON THURSDAY

A "Careful Crossing Campaign" for the purpose of educating the public to the dangers of railroad grade crossings will be launched Thursday by the American Railway Association, according to J. E. Daly, assistant trainmaster of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in this city.

The campaign is of national scope, the American Railway Association comprising in its membership practically every steam railroad line in the United States, and simultaneous advertising and publicity is being given the move to put across the safety program.

The national campaign will supplant the "Safety First" period observed by the Pennsylvania Company last year for a few weeks, but much the same sort of program has this year been given national scope. The Careful Crossing Campaign will be observed from June 1 to September 30, the time being picked as that season of the year when motorists are more thickly populating the roads, and the number of accidents increases.

The American Railway Association hopes by this plan to educate the public to use care in crossing railroad grade crossings and to eliminate the crossing accidents that have taken a heavy toll in life. Glaring placards and lithographs, in four colors, depicting a locomotive about to crash upon the terrified occupants of an automobile, tell their own story of the value of carefulness.

These placards are being distributed and put on display in every city, town, village and hamlet along the right of ways of the railroads of the United States. Mr. Daly, as secretary of the safety committee, has charge of the distribution of the posters on the division of the Pennsylvania between Cincinnati and Columbus excepting in the larger cities, such as Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton and Springfield, which have their own separate committees for the purpose of distributing the posters.

Every town and village between Cincinnati and Columbus has already been placarded, according to Mr. Daly, who began work of distributing the posters in Xenia Wednesday, in anticipation of the opening of the campaign.

pleased with the celebration of Memorial Day this year. The parade that opened the afternoon celebration, stretched for several blocks, as members of Lewis Post, the Women's Relief Corps, and other patriotic and civic organizations, marched past headed by the Police Department and with the Fire Department bringing up the rear. Sixty-five uniformed members of Foody Post, American Legion were in line and the Cadet Battalion of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors Orphans' Home, with the Cadet Band, and headed by Col. Sylvius Garver and Major Edgar Heller, contributed to the military aspect of the procession to the graves.

Lewis Post, held its ritual first at the Women's Relief Corps monument, followed by the memorial to the unknown dead, by members of the Relief Corps. Exercises at the new Lewis Post monument included music, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Paul H. Cresswell of the American Legion and followed by the dedicatory speech of Captain Whiteman dedicating the new monument.

The new monument is of marble, with the bronze lettering, Lewis Post, No. 347, 1861-1866, and a bronze replica, 20 inches high, of the G. A. R. emblem button, which represents all branches of the service. Twenty-two years of single unassisted effort on the part of Lewis Post, enabled the erection of the monument. In 1904, according to J. W. Hedges, guardian of the memorial fund, $100 had been gathered together and was placed in a building and loan. The sum of $175 was turned back to Lewis Post after the G. A. R. Encampment of 1910, and interest on the money contributed almost $500 of the amount spent for the monument, which was approximately $1,000.

During these 22 years Mr. Hedges jealously guarded the memorial fund. Several times in those years it was threatened when some member would attempt to use it for other purposes, but Mr. Hedges kept the fund true to its original purpose. No one cent was ever donated by any other affiliated, patriotic or civic organization to the fund for the monument. At one time an appeal was made to other organizations, and quotas fixed among them. The Union Veterans Legion, at that time operating here, fixed a quota but never met it. A member of the latter organization gave his donation by check personally to Mr. Hedges. When the organization did not raise its quota Mr. Hedges did not cash the check and it is still on file in his accounts. When the Post was ready to make plans for erecting its monument, a monument committee composed of Mr. Hedges, J. H. McPherson, H. H. Conklin, Henry Hopping and W. L. Smith was appointed and this committee had the monument erected.

Captain L. H. Whiteman, who delivered the dedicatory speech Tuesday is a charter member of Lewis Post. When the Post was organized there were 26 charter members, only four of whom are still living, according to his account. These four charter survivors are William Holzapple, J. H. McPherson, J. H. Matthews and L. H. Whiteman. The Post's greatest membership was more than 350 but of these only 42 are still living.

Dr. McClellan, representing the American Legion, read a letter from State Commander C. L. Darlington, regretting his inability to be present, and sending a Memorial Day message to those assembled. He also spoke of the work of the American Legion and its purpose to carry on where the G. A. R. is leaving off.

Ex-Governor Campbell gave the American soldiers of the World War the credit for winning the war because they are the children and the children's children of those inspiring heroes of the war of the Rebellion.

Warfare has changed much since the question of the Union hung in the balance back in 1861-65 he told his hearers, citing the fact that during the Civil War 78 Union generals and 78 Confederate generals, a total of 176, were killed in battle, while not a single American general was killed in the last war.

He pointed out, that where the generals in former times led their warriors into the battle, they now remain behind the lines and direct the operations of the various attacking forces, while subordinate officers are personally in charge of the units. The former Governor himself, a G. A. R. member, told an interesting story of President Grant, whom he said was at one time Colonel of the Twelfth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. According to Governor Campbell, Grant was displeased with the commission of captain and the assignment given him by Governor Yates of Illinois, and through General McClellan, and a friend who was a legislator, he obtained the Colonelcy of the Twelfth

Ohio. Before he assumed command however, Gov. Yates saw the folly of his move and made him Colonel in charge of the Seventh Illinois Regiment. The former governor paid tribute to his fallen comrades and the other departed heroes of America's wars in his interesting address.

The exercises at the Catholic Cemetery were held Tuesday morning at the same hour as similar exercises in the cemeteries outside of Xenia and at the O. S. and S. O. Home. J. W. Hedges and W. L. Smith were the G. A. R. members in charge of the services at the Catholic Cemetery, and following the ritual, Miss Faye Cavanaugh read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The Rev. Father A. A. Burke, pastor of St. Bridget Church, spoke in memory of the departed soldiers and children of the parochial school furnished the music. The services were among the most impressive ever conducted at that cemetery.

Similarly, services were conducted at the other Cemeteries, H. H. Conklin being the G. A. R. member in charge at Beaver Creek, where the ritual of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. were held and Mrs. Edward Ellsberg gave the Gettysburg Address. Flowers were strewn on the water of the Little Miami River at Trebels in memory of the naval heroes, by the party. Services at Stevenson Cemetery were in charge of J. C. Andrews and Albert Burrell and at Mercer Cemetery the services were in charge of J. H. Matthews.

DEVOUT THANKS FOR THE REMOVAL OF THE CORNER SALOON.

Many people are of the opinion that the American people talk of nothing but booze, spending their daylight hours figuring how to get "some of the old stuff" and their evening hours in drinking it.

The bootlegging business as at present constituted is, of course, a disgrace to the nation. But those critics of the prohibition law who believe that all the deceit, the contempt for law and the serious results which follow the drinking of bootleg booze are due solely to prohibition will find, if they look a bit, a still larger number of people who disagree with them.

The spirit of lawlessness was growing before the days of the Volstead Act. People with self-respect, with law-abiding tendencies and a reasonable sense of the dignity of citizenship, do not disobey this law any more than they did any previous ones. There are thousands and thousands of homes where the only difference since the prohibition law went into effect is the substitution, on the shelf of the medicine closet, of the two-ounce bottle of aromatic spirits of ammonia for the four-ounce bottle of brandy or whiskey which used to stand there year on end, used only in serious emergency, and then measured by the tablespoonful.

There are thousands of other homes with growing boys and girls in them where the parents give devout thanks for the removal of the temptation of the corner saloon. These parents know that the present wild fad will die out as all wild fads do, and that the solid benefits of prohibition will then show up.

There are thousands of children nine and ten years old who have never seen a drunken man, who do not know what the papers are talking about when they use such words as booze, prohibition, drunkenness, etc. Twenty years ago was there a child who had never seen a drunken man go reeling down the street?

To go back on the prohibition law in the slightest degree would, in the minds of these thousands of people be a calamity. They are gladly making the sacrifice of their occasional cool bottle of beer on a summer's evening, their occasional bottle of wine on a high festival or family anniversary, that their children may never know the temptation which their generation knew.

Before being too sure that the nation has gone to pieces because of prohibition, it might be well to consult some of the people. Some of them live on your street.

BEVERIDGE AND PINCHOT TRUE BLUE REPUBLICANS.

"The success of Mr. Beveridge, in Indiana, and Mr. Pinchot, in Pennsylvania, is construed by many superficial observers of politics to mean an adverse attitude of the Republicans of those states against the national administration. When asked to give a bill of particulars the observers in question are unable to comply with the request, except to suggest that since both Messrs. Beveridge and Pinchot were progressives, while Mr. Harding never wandered from the reservation the recent primaries are evidence that the Republican voters are turning away from the 'regulars' to support 'progressives.' It is an absurd suggestion, which might do harm to both Messrs. Beveridge and Pinchot if it were not so palpably flimsy and so easily controverted. There is no possibility of successful challenge of the Republicanism of these gentlemen. They are as regular as any member of the Old Guard, and Republicans everywhere rejoice in their nomination at the primaries. No one will be more unwavering or earnest in desiring the election of these gentlemen than the leader of the Republican party, Mr. Harding."

THE ROTTEN STUFF NOW CALLED "BOOZE" NOT FIT EVEN FOR HOGS.

People still addicted to bootleg whiskey—and they are more or less numerous in this and all other communities—may do well to consider the indictment brought against the stuff by Judge James R. Hamilton of Georgetown, Texas. In his charge to a grand jury, he declared that of 1,500 samples of confiscated "moonshine" analyzed by the state food and drug department, only 25 were found free from poison. And with the poison, there was such uncleanness as no self-respecting human being would tolerate in connection with any other beverage. He explained:

"These illicit stills are hidden in thickets, fields, old out-houses and barns. The containers often consist of old barrels, after repeated use, unspeakably filthy and ill-smelling.

"The unprotected, fermenting mixture attracts animal life, such as flies, cockroaches, mice, rats, bugs and insects of every description. They all feed and fatten on the materials and often die in it. Some of this rotten stuff is not even fit for hogs. The stills used to concentrate bootleg whiskey, as a rule, defy all precautions taught by experience and practice.

"In some instances they consist of common boilers covered with filthy blankets in which the alcoholic vapors are retained and wrung out into bottles. Frequently old torn up mattresses furnish the necessary cotton for straining the finished product."

After that, the consumer of illicit booze at least cannot plead the excuse that he did not know what he was getting. And the conditions pictured are not at all peculiar to Texas.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

IF YOU ONLY HAD YOURSELF

It may be true that we are each to ourselves the most interesting personage in the world, but on the other hand, did we have no other person on earth to interest these selves of ours, we would soon go suddenly mad.

The well fed dog may stretch himself in the shade of a tree and forget all else in his contentment. But let him once get hungry again!

Jesus said: "Blessed is he who hungers and thirsts after righteousness."

It is blessed is he who continually hungers after something higher and better than what he himself represents.

Add to yourself, my friend, interests, interests, interests!

For it is out of this interests of yours that spring the life and rich rewards of existence. And it matters very little the direction in which your interests lead you, so long as they stimulate and spur you to unfold the best that is within you.

When we give most we get most. Service renders back larger dividends than any stock or bond.

You may pride yourself on having much—but it is in such an attitude of thinking that you really possess the least.

You have most when you appreciate most.

Then penniless boy walking through a wood may be richer than the richest millionaire. He may see what no one but he who is rich in love may see.

There are those who cross the seas a hundred times in search of happiness and who return as lacking as when they get out. If they but knew this happiness which they are willing to spend so much to gain, might be theirs simply by walking a few steps to the door of their neighbor—and there rendering no more than a pleasant talk or good service.

The greatest adventure toward which we all look forward that we may find real thrills, begins the minute we leave ourselves for something or somebody.

DIFFERENT TASTES.

I like to sit by a spreading tree—day after day you may see me there!—and read of perils on land and sea, of heroes bold and of damsels fair. I read my books till the long day cools, and the shadows lengthen on field and flat; I see men pass with their golfing tools, and I wonder what they can see in that. My friend Jim Jerk has a gorgeous wad, and he goes away on his ten-year tramps; he sends me cards from strange towns abroad, and letters sealed with unholy stamps. And he might sit 'neath a stately yew, with a good warm book and a stogie fat; but off he travels to Timbuctoo—I wonder what he can see in that! And some go off to the sombre woods, to picnic there, on the grass to lie, to eat stale doughnuts and kindred goods, and get their feet in the custard pie; I see them go with their baskets big, to the dark abode of the bug and bat, where the skeeters skeet and the chiggers chig—I wonder what they can see in that! The joy of one makes another sick, the fun of James is a grief to me; give me a volume that has a kick, a tale of perils on land and sea! Then James may off to the jungle speed to chase a tiger or other cat; I'll watch him go as I sit and read, and wonder what he can see in that.

As Put Good Food into a Sour, Fermented Stomach, Extra Sample Package Sent on Request.

There is one pleasure that comes three times a day every day in the year: those blessed with good appetite and good digestion—the pleasure of eating. But how vastly different it is when appetite is strong and digestion so weak that the best loved dishes are pushed aside unheeded. When Dr. Jackson formulated his now famous Digestive and Liver Powder he became the friend and benefactor of those unfortunate for all time. This powder loses no time in digesting the weakened stomach to prepare such foods as are put into that organ by ordinary folk. BANDITS WRECK AMERICAN RELIEF TRAIN IN RUSSIA SAYS UNCONFIRMED REPORT

London, May 31.—Bandits have wrecked an American relief administration train in Russia and several officials are reported to have been killed, according to a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen today quoting information received in Copenhagen from Moscow.

New York, May 31.—At headquarters of the American relief administration, 42 Broadway, it was said that no information had been received regarding the wrecking of an A. R. A. train in Russia with the loss of several lives.

The cablegram failed to say whether the persons reported killed were Americans or Russians. There are a large number of Russians and other Europeans working under the direction of the American agents in Russia. The report of the wrecking of the train has not been officially confirmed.

BONUS BILL TO BE REPORTED TO SENATE FROM POWERFUL FINANCE COMMITTEE

Washington, May 31.—Ending the long stagnation that has existed in the bonus situation, the powerful senate finance committee today voted 9 to 4 to report the McCumber bonus bill to the senate and press for early passage.

The four who voted against reporting the measure were: Republicans; Calder of New York; Frelinghuysen of New Jersey; Smoot of Utah and Dillingham of Vermont.

The first two are candidates for re-election this year.

The Democrats on the committee three in number, joined with the six majority Republicans in forcing the bill out. Those voting or reporting the bill were:

Republicans: McCumber of North Dakota; Curtis of Kansas; Watson of Indiana; LaFollette of Wisconsin

Sutherland of West Virginia and McLean of Connecticut.

Democrats: Gerry, Rhode Island; Walsh, Massachusetts and Simmons, North Carolina.

The McCumber bill differs in many respects from the bill that passed the house some weeks ago and a series of conferences will be necessary with house leaders even after the passage of the McCumber bill by the senate.

EATS ANYTHING JUST ANY TIME AND FEELS FINE

Mrs. Dora Fulton Declares She Was Hardly Able to Dress Herself Before Taking Tanlac, But Is Now Well and Strong.

Mrs. Dora Fulton, 2737 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio, has added her testimony to the thousands who have been benefited by Tanlac. She said:

"I was so run down I just felt good for nothing all the time. I had no appetite to speak of and the little I did eat upset me so that I was in misery for hours. My food formed gas that bloated me until I could hardly breathe. I was constipated and had dull, mean headaches. I couldn't sleep nights and often would wake up with a jump. I could scarcely dress myself, much less do any housework."

"Well, Tanlac did me so much good I think I can eat anything, any time. My sleep is sound and restful. I can easily do my housework, and I feel fine all the time. I just think Tanlac is the best medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

BACK BAD TODAY?

Backache is usually kidney-ache and makes you dull, nervous and tired. Use Doan's Kidney Pills for weak kidneys—the remedy recommended by your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor!

O. T. Smith, retired railroad man, 516 W. Second St., Xenia, says: "I had no end of kidney trouble and suffered a great deal with lumbago. Sharp, piercing pains shot through the small of my back and I could hardly straighten after stooping. Colds settled on my kidneys, leaving them extremely weak and irregular in action. Nights I got up four or five times to pass the secretions which were highly colored and contained a sediment like brick dust. Doan's Kidney Pills had been so highly recommended that I got some. Several boxes relieved me of those terrible pains in my back and my kidneys were put in a normal condition."

He and his wife, Mary, say he owes his new lease on life to a social worker whose name they do not know, who interested herself in the aged mendicant and arranged for the operation.

THE DRAWING CROWDS TO TRACK IN ENGLAND

Epsom Downs, England, May 31.—Lord Woolavington's three year old Captain Cuttle, one of the favorites on the historic Epsom Downs race course today, Tamar ran second and Craig-an-Gower, third. There were no American entries.

Two other horses favored in the betting were Sol Joel's Pondoland and Lord Queensborough's St. Louis. Pondoland was ridden by an American jockey, Frankie O'Neill, while Archibald, another American was up on St. Louis.

Half a million spectators, including many Americans, saw Captain Cuttle sweep down the mile and one half course the winner.

Epsom Downs, England, May 31.—Derby day.

These were magic words in England today with the attention of the whole country focussed upon the most famous horse race on the most historic race track in the world.

ENTRIES FOR DERBY

London, May 31.—The entries for the derby follow:

Pondoland, Re-echo, Stamp, Simon Pure, Swithin, Villers, Dilgence, Rung Ho, North End, Tamar, Bucks Hussar, Craig-an-Gower, Dry Toast, Irish Batele, Silpho, Satelles, Lord of Burghley, Psychology, Norseman, Baydon, Captain Cuttle, St. Louis, True Knight, Silvanus, White Satin, Great Star, Jacquel, Lord Biberry, Moyode, Royal Lancer, Flavius.

There was perfect summer weather and it was estimated as post time drew near that there would be at least five hundred thousand spectators on hand for the great turf classic.

The three horses mainly favored by the betting public were:

Lord Queensborough's St. Louis, Archibald up, 7 to 2.

Sol Joel's Pondoland, O'Neill up, 15 to 2.

Lord Woolavington's Captain Cuttle, 20 to 1.

King George, Queen Mary, the Duke of York, Viscount Lascelles and the Princess Mary were in the royal box.

It was a combination of an epic sporting event, a pageant and a society affair. On the lawn in front of the grand stand were gentlemen dressed in the latest from Bond street. Women attired in the most fashionable Paris frocks lent vivid color to the scene. There were costermongers, gaudy in their multi-colored suits set off with huge pearl buttons, talking in a language of slang that only they themselves could understand.

Hundreds of book makers shouted rascally from beneath their great umbrellas, urging the spectators to get down their bets early to secure the best odds.

There was not a single American entry. The nearest to it was St. Louis, owned by Lord Queensborough, husband of Edith Star Miller, an American girl. Further American flavor was given by the fact that two American jockeys were slated to ride. Frankie O'Neill on Pondoland and Archibald on St. Louis.

Springfield, Mass., May 31.—Two men were shot, 100 others were arrested, 100 game cocks seized and the cock fighting derby of Massachusetts and Connecticut, was abruptly ended when state constabulary officers and Agawam police raided the three-ring fight circus staged in a barn in Feeding Hills.

One of the two men shot, Robert McBride, 60, was the most seriously injured. Examination at a hospital showed that he had more than 50 small bird shot in his body. The second man injured was Walter Chapman. According to the police the men were attempting to escape when they were fired upon.

Many of the men attending the fight made futile efforts to escape and battled furiously with the state officers. Ambulances from headquarters of the state constabulary troops in Northampton were used to bring the prisoners into police headquarters in Springfield.

GOOD WEATHER DRAWS MANY OUT TUESDAY

Good weather for the holiday drew many Xenia and Greene County people out of their homes Decoration day.

They were "implied by the lure of drives in the country, shady picnicking nooks, dipping fish in Greene County streams, and by a love of nature without.

The streets were crowded all day long, and machines hurried in droves over the country roads. Scattered spots of the city dwellers seeking solace from city heat in sylvan scenes.

Kilgore Park was crowded for its opening day, and the river was crowded with bathers during the afternoon and evening. Dancing was also a predominant feature in the evening and the pavilion floor was crowded all evening.

HALF A BILLION DOLLARS SAVINGS

—held by Ohio Building Associations at this time, with rapidly increasing accumulations, attests the public's appreciation of the unequalled advantages given by these institutions and the growing disposition of the people to provide for the "rainy day" that is sure to come in the lives of most of them.

Practically all of these associations loan their money on selected first mortgages on real estate—the security that stands next to Government Bonds—with the result that, at the present rate, their losses would amount to only about 1% of their assets in 100 years. Ample Reserves are provided against even this remote contingency.

With losses negligible and expenses reduced to a minimum—about three-fourths of 1% in this association—we can give you unquestioned security, 6% interest and conveniences not combined with equal rate and safety in any other investment of which we know. 7% on Soldiers' Bonus.

SMITH IN LETTER TO BURKE SAYS HE WILL AID LAW

Replies to Questionnaire
Sent Gubernatorial Candidates.

Columbus, May 31.—That he is unalterably opposed to violation of the principle of the initiative and referendum, that, if elected governor of Ohio, he will endeavor to retain, or appoint, in official positions capable and efficient men and women and that he will enforce the laws are declarations made by Secretary of State Smith in a letter to State Senator James F. Burke, Elyria.

Secretary Smith is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. His letter to Senator Burke is a reply to a questionnaire sent by Senator Burke to gubernatorial candidates. During the debate in the senate proceeding passage of the Dunn emergency act, providing for reorganization of state departments, Senator Burke opposed passage of the emergency clause.

Endorsing civil service and social justice Secretary Smith asserted that common sense will dictate, and that courts are not needed to state, when emergencies serious enough to justify suspension of referendum rights exist. Secretary Smith expressed the conviction that the Republican state platform should contain planks affirming law enforcement, civil service and social justice.

PRICE IS NOT TOO GREAT IF UNION RESULT OF WAR

President of China Outlines Position Wednesday in Interview.

Peking, May 31.—"If out of the present war union results, the price paid will not be too great."

"I have done all that I could to prevent civil war in China. I have tried for months to bring about a reconciliation between the rival factions and my efforts have been in vain."

His excellency Hsu Shih-Chang, president of China, made these declarations to the International News Service today.

"I will not resign my office, no matter what pressure is put upon me," he said, "nor flee in the face of danger, for if I desert Peking will be thrown immediately into chaos. I am doing everything possible to maintain order within the walls and making protection of foreign life and property my first duty."

"For a number of years the republic has been divided into two rival camps and west and before the world as a nation torn by internal strife. This cannot longer be suffered to continue. The north and the south are inseparable parts of the republic. If strife continues, it will effect not only ourselves but other nations as well."

"National unity is the first object we must strive to maintain. If my resignation would bring this about I would resign today, but it would not."

AWAIT POSTING OF JACK JOHNSON'S FORFEIT FOR BOUT

Washington, C. H., May 31.—With the exception of Jack Johnson's forfeit of $2,000 being posted, formal arrangements have been made for a bout of 15 to 20 rounds between Johnson and "Tut" Jackson on July 4th and Saturday it was indicated that the bout might be held in Dayton, although there is a probability that it may be held in this city, or Akron, the latter place having made a heavy bid for the clash between the undisputed champion of the middle west—Jackson, and the man who has never been defeated by a man of his own race—Jack Johnson.

YORK TURNS DOWN VAUDEVILLE OFFERS

Wilmore, Ky., May 31.—Sergeant Alvin York, of Pail Mall, Tenn., told an audience in the course of a speech delivered at the celebration here yesterday for the thirty second anniversary of the founding of Asbury College, that he had received offers as high as $1,000 a night to go into vaudeville, motion pictures or on the lecture platform, but declared that he had rather be a "pauper and homeless, knowing that I am serving God and will have a home in heaven." In the course of his talk he told how his faith in God carried him through the exploits that made him famous as a World War hero, and at the close many of those present declared he had delivered the best sermon they ever had heard.

SUSPENSION IS LIFTED FROM U. P. MINISTER

Zanesville, May 31.—The United Presbyterian general assembly in session at Cambridge will remove the suspension from the ministry imposed on Rev. D. H. Curry formerly of Birmingham, Mich., and will restore him without prejudice to full standing in the church. This was recommended by the judicial committee and adopted by the assembly. The recommendation contained a clause urging Rev. Mr. Curry to "find another field of labor at an early date," in order that the church "might best be served."

Rev. Mr. Curry was charged with insubordination in 1919 because of his refusal to sever his connection with the church at Birmingham when his pastorate was dissolved by high church authorities. The synod of Ohio subsequently suspended him and the case is finally closed with the action of the general assembly.

TIM'S SECRET IS DISCUSSED

Mrs. Cummings came in glowing. "Where's Tom?" Tim asked. "He had to go, said something about an engagement, but, Gertie, he told me to tell you he would be at the Olympic tonight to take you home." Mrs. Cummings looked and acted excited. "Did you have a nice ride, Ma?" Gertie asked. "Indade I did! First, I was scared. But after we got in the park, I forgot to hold on—" "Hold on to what?" Tim queried. "The side of the auto, of course. My hand was stiff I hung on so tight. Bug it was fine!" "You'll be wanting to go up in a airplane now, I'll bet," Tim said, laughing. "Not a bit of it! I'll keep on the ground till they put me under it. Tom asked me something, Tim." "What?" Eagerness in his voice. "Somethin' about you, dearie?" "I'll bet it's our secret! Tim was now sitting up too excited to want to rest. "He asked me if you could go home with him—on his ranch, and stay till you got strong and well again?" "So that was your secret, was it?" Gertie broke in. "Um—what did you say, Ma? Can I go, Ma?" Mrs. Cummings looked at the eager face, the longing eyes. Home without Tim would be lonely, especially for her. Jennie was engrossed in her studies; Gertie had little time with her because of her need of sleep and rest in the mornings. But Tim was always in and out, the life of the place. But with the unselfishness of a mother, she said: "I told him I would think about it. Wouldn't you get homesick, Tim, darlin'? And suppose you got hurted again? It's a long ways from home-Timmie." "Please let me go, Ma! He said he'd teach me to ride a pony, and I could feed the chickens, and he has dogs, a lot of 'em, and he'll let me learn to shoot his gun, and—" out of breath he was compelled to stop. "I'll be scared to have you do all them things, Tim." "Rats!—He'll show me so I won't get hurt. He said he done all them things when he was young as me." Then: "And we'll ride on the cars. I ain't never rode on the cars. Ma and he said he had a n'ee Chinaman who would look after me out doors, and a old woman housekeeper in the house so, if I got cold or anything. She takes care of him, so I guess she could take care of a kid like me. Oh, please Ma!" "I'll think about it, dearie. I told him I'd let him know in a day or two. I want to ask the doctor—and—" "You ask Ma to let me go, Gertie. I didn't tell about you blushin' so when I talked about him, or anything. Tell her, Gertie!" "I think it would be lovely, Tim." She said nothing of the longing she had felt ever since her mother's confidence that it had been her he had asked to go home with him—her ache when she thought he would soon leave her again. "Tom would take good care of him, Ma."

"I know—but there ain't no one like a mother to take care of children if they gets sick." "I ain't goin' to get sick! Breaking my leg ain't been very sick only for a few days when it hurt. I ain't never been sick, Ma, I heard you bragging once to Mrs. Arnold that I hadn't." Speak of—and they appear. "I couldn't make you hear so come right in. And I heard what Tim said. Where's he want to go?" "Home with Tom Norris out to his ranch," Mrs. Cummings answered. "Goodness me! Temptin' Providence I call it to let a boy like that go to a wild country. I expect there's Indians, and wild animals, and—" "Ain't no such things!" Tim indignantly broke in. "Tom told me there wasn't. Only good Indians come around once in a while. And he said I could ride a pony. Please don't say nothin' against me goin', Mrs. Arnold. I just got to go!" Tears stood in the brave eyes. "Your Ma needs the money you make sellin' papers too," the visit went on paying no heed. "Is that it, Ma? Why you do say 'yes,' he swallowed a sob. "That hasn't anything to do with Tim. Ma, don't need your money now that I earn so much," Gertie said quietly. Although she listened indignantly to the further objections made by Mrs. Arnold, she comforted Tim by nodding her head at him, implying she would urge his going.
